

Numen moves into a new phase to increase its development

Driven by family shareholding, the NUMEN group started a deep transformation process since several years.

It is now entering an acceleration phase to secure the Group's business development strategy around the new growth drivers represented by the digitisation of organisations, as well as digital services for private sector companies and public administrations.

"The opening phase should enable the Group to increase its development ambitions while respecting its values. Our baseline "Trust Provider" remains the marker of our identity and fidelity to our principles", says Emmanuelle de Noirmont, Chairman of the Supervisory Board for one year after Solange Fraikin.

This new phase of the transformation project will be led by a tighter team and a renewed Management Board, following the end of Marc Le Vernoy's term in the latter:

- Eric de La Bigne, previously Vice-Chairman of the Supervisory Board, is serving as Chairman of the Management Board until the arrival of a new executive, whose recruitment has been decided by the Supervisory Board;
- Anne Pease, Group Managing Director;
- Cécil Carrier, Group Finance and Administration Director;
- François Chahuneau, Group Director of Technology.

"The NUMEN shareholders, who are always close and committed to the future of the Group, intend to support its development and this transformation over the long term. It is my will and the sense of the mandate they entrusted to me", points out Emmanuelle de Noirmont.
